

Liane Moriarty

... or just enslave us in new ways? "What happens, don't get all rigid," one character advises. "Be a bit... bendy." There are worse words to live by.

"Some secrets are meant to stay secret forever. Just ask Pandora"

GREAT READS NEW IN NONFICTION

JFK'S LAST HUNDRED DAYS

by Thurston Clarke

The noted historian makes the case that JFK, who had just lost his infant son, was on the verge of vast achievement before his assassination.

TURN AROUND BRIGHT EYES

by Rob Sheffield

The widower and Rolling Stone contributor (Love Is a Mix Tape) finds love again with an astrophysicist who shares his karaoke obsession.

THE END OF THE SUBURBS

by Leigh Gallagher

Bye-bye, picket fences? Journalist Gallagher reveals the societal and economic shifts diminishing the hold of the once-dominant American Dream.

